COMMUTING PATTERNS IN ILLINOIS

Introduction and Analysis

Description

County commuting data shown on the following tables (pages 2 through 33) were extracted by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics from the 1980 Census. The data have been reformatted and presented here by the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security as a special Labor Market Information report. The data reflect only civilian noninstitutional workers who either live or work in Illinois. Because commuting information was not an item on the complete enumeration of the Census, there will be instances where grand totals do not equal the sum of the counties and interstate commuting. Generally, such discrepancies are less than one-half of one percent.

Layout

The tables in this report are divided as follows:

Pages 2 - 15 Illinois Workers by County of Residence: ADAMS through LAWRENCE

Pages 16 - 29 Illinois Workers by County of Residence: LEE Through WOODFORD

Pages 30 - 33 Interstate Commuting

COMMUTING PATTERNS IN ILLINOIS

A recommended companion to this report is Counties and Incorporated Municipalities of Illinois, August 1, 1981, compiled by the Secretary of State of Illinois. This booklet matches counties with cities, towns, and other civil divisions and can be helpful in locating the correct county for a specific city or town.

Analysis

Commuting to a job is a normal part of the workday for about one-third of Illinois' workers. On the map, opposite page 1, net in- and out-commuting is shown as a percent of the total number of workers who live in that county. Some simply commute to or from another county, while others commute to or from a neighboring state. The counties with the largest proportions of workers who live there but work in another county are:

Kendall, 63.1%; Henderson, 59.7%; Monroe, 59.5%; Woodford, 58.0%; Menard, 55.8%; Marshall, 54.5%; Jersey, 51.8%; DuPage, 51.7%; Cumberland, 51.5%; and Shelby, 50.6%.

Using the map it is clear that three of these counties probably have out-commuting to neighboring states. For example, Henderson has 1,149 workers out-commuting to Iowa (page 30) or about 31.2 percent of the total workers who live in Henderson (page 15). On the other hand, DuPage has almost as many workers out-commuting to Cook county (129,069) as it has workers who stay in DuPage for their jobs (162,191). The counties with the largest proportion of workers who live and work in the same county are:

Sangamon, 89.0%; Champaign, 87.2%; Macon, 87.1%; Adams, 86.4%; Crawford, 86.0%; Stephenson, 86.0%; McDonough, 85.8%; McLean, 85.7%; Effingham, 85.8%; and Cook, 84.8%.

These counties have large proportions of their workers who do not out-commute because they provide a wide variety of jobs in relation to their geographic location. In total, there are more than 90,000 workers who commute into Illinois from other states. The counties having the largest shares of these out-of- state commuters are:

Cook, 42.4%; Rock Island, 14.6%; Lake, 7.4%; and St. Clair, 5.7%.

More than 106,000 Illinoisans reverse this pattern and commute out of Illinois to jobs in other states. The counties which have the largest shares of this total are:

Cook, 21.5%; St. Clair, 20.5%; Madison, 17.6%; and Rock Island, 7.1%.

Like the counties which have out-of-state workers commuting in, these counties are all located either next to or very close to the neighboring states.

There are many ways these data can be put to use- the only limits are the user's needs. The matrix format lends itself to any kind of analysis. Some points to remember when using these data:

- all numbers represent WORKERS; only EMPLOYED persons are counted here.

- "not reported" are shown separately; WORK IN totals exclude "not reported', LIVE IN totals include "not reported".
